Clark Speaks Out For Strong Executive

by Billie Stablein

 AN ANGRY VICTOR CLARK put aside his president's gavel and spoke out to the Student Council Sunday concerning what he termed a "deliberate creating of conflicts" by the members,

The special meeting had been called to continue discussion of the Council's proposed constitution. In a two-hour session, the members covered those sections dealing with qualifications for candidacy and the powers of the president.

Clark's remarks occurred during a 30-minute discussion on a clause which listed, among the duties of the president, that of interpreting the constitution.

Advocate Steve Royer moved that this clause be stricken from the draft, forcibly arguing against such judicial power to the executive from whom the members would have no appeal, except to the Student Life Com-mittee. that this clause be stricken from Clark argued with equal ardor, saying that, in his opinion, one of the main purposes of the re-organization is the rendering of organization is the rendering of student government more effec-tive and faster-moving. He con-siders that granting such judicial power to the executive would help to accomplish this.

Answering the charge that the president would be made too powerful, Clark said that strong leadership is needed because, in the present situation, "Only personality and politics can get anything done."

sonality and politics can get anything done."

If the Council members continue their trend with the proposed constitution, he continued, they will succeed in "pinning the president to the wall," thereby "gumming up the whole student government."

government."

Royer's motion was finally defeated, 11-3, after which Activities Director Nick Bazan proposed another, providing that the executive would have interpretive power "with the consent of a majority of the Student Assembly."

After more lengthy debate in le same vein as the previous the same vein as the previous discussion, Bazan's motion was passed unanimously.

Lisner to Feature Harpsichordist

• THE SECOND performance in the University's concert series will be held on Thursday, Nov. 19, at Lisner Auditorium, at 8:30 pm. It will feature baroque music played on a harpsichord by Robert Parris, assistant professor of music at the University.

The program will include Bach's "Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue," three of Domenico Scart latti's sonatas, and other baroque latti's sonatas, and other baroque latti's sonatas, and other baroque selections. Professor Parris, who is a well known keyboard con-cert artist and composer, will perform these pieces on his own harpsichord.

Professor Parris has had his compositions played by the National Symphony Orchestra and by other orchestral groups here and abroad. He has studied at Juilliard and is currently teaching courses in baroque music, orchestration and harmony at the University. His Sperrhake Harpsichord, which he purchased in Germany, is one of two such instruments to be found in Washington.

The concert will be free to University students, faculty, staff and their guests.

Ross continued, "I've never seen so many people dance at Homecoming and since music makes any dance, this must have been a successful ball." Music was provided by the Coasters, the Roaches, and Bill Doggett.

Testing Center Use Urged

• LACK OF MATURITY is the major problem of today's college student," said Dr. E. Lakin Phil-lips, head of the University's Test-ing and Counselling Center.

"The average GW student," said Dr. Phillips, "doesn't even know the Counselling Center exists. We have no way of seeking out students. We must urge student advisers and teachers to recommend the center to recommend recommend the center to people

"The emotional problems students face are lack of self-confidence, lack of self-discipline, lack of direction, and feelings of inadequacy, most of which could be solved by passage of time and maturing," said Dr. Phillips.

About one third of all the students who come to the center come seeking help with emotional problems.

The three clinical psychologists working at the center—Dr. Philips, Dr. Roland Tanck, and Dr. Salah Batravi, all of whom teach at the University, hold counselling sessions with the individual student to establish where his studying difficulties lie and set about solving them.

"Ordinary poor study habits and emotional reasons for poor study techniques are about equally distributed among our cases," said Dr. Phillips.

A battery of tests ranging from aptitude and achievement to emotional stability is administered to students seeking help at the center. The charge for these tests, all results of which are made to the student, is $10. Unless the student goes into programmed instruction, this $10. Charge is the only one required.

The Testing and Counselling Center is open from 9 am to 5 pm during the week, and is located in building N, on 21st Street between G and H Sts.

Heclo Explains Purposes Of Proposed Constitution

• AMBIGUOUS LANGUAGE and poor organization of the present Student Council constitu-tion were cited recently by Hugh Heclo, chairman of the Reorgan-

Heclo chairman of the Reorgan-ization Committee, as factors necessitating a new document. Speaking before a Student Personnel meeting last Tuesday, Heclo attempted to explain the purpose and the effects of the proposed constitution.

"We now have an opportunity that students at GW have not had in 30 years," he stated.

"In my last three years here I have seen the kind of progress that indicates that this is a time will provide the precedents and traditions for the bright years abed. A good constitution is a big step in this direction," he said.

The constitution as drafted consists of two parts. Title One, Heclo explained, creates an enlarged legislative body of about 30 members, called the Student Assembly.

Title Two deals with the joint administration, faculty student.

Title Two deals with the joint administration - faculty - student committees which now exist or which will be created.

In connection with Title One, Heclo stressed three points which it provides: that the legal authority of the student government would be enlarged; that each dormitory would send at least one representative to the Assembly; and that certain areas of administration, such as freshman orientation, would no longer be a student responsibility.

"Title Two," he said, "seeks to substantially redefine our think-ing about student participation in University affairs. "This will serve first to formalize those arrangements by which students are already given a voice and, second, to increase that voice in other areas."

Heclo pointed out that the administrators are a "crucial ingredient" in making the Student Assembly and student participation in University affairs work.

"University affairs work.
"University officials must believe in the student: that he has not only the right to contribute, but also that he has a real contribution to make." he said.

In conclusion, Heclo commented that any constitution, no matter how carefully framed, can be ### Elevated Apathy . . .

· WHEN STUDENT APATHY toward University affairs extends to the Student Council, the time has come for some long-overdue, honest soul-searching.

Only nine out of 18 voting members appeared for the Council's regular meeting Wednesday night. The group was so sparse that the guard was even loath to unlock the Library door for its admittance.

It would seem that the very nature and importance of the Student Council's existence would be enough to keep at least its members interested.

Particularly when such a vital issue to the University as the reorganization of student government comes before the body, one would expect the Council members to have enough sense of responsibility to attend.

This should be especially true since there is a time t as to when the proposed constitution must be submitted to student referendum.

Granted, there were those who had truly legitimate excuses Wednesday night; but undoubtedly just as many who didn't. And of those absent, only two even bothered to send proxies.

As there was little demand for the floor, President Victor Clark took it. He noted that a Thursday or Friday midterm is often used as an excuse for absence by members. However, he pointed out that within the past three weeks, he had cancelled two Council meetings because so many persons had pleaded tests.

Also, he said, exams of one sort or another are spread over a period of nearly a month and a half. So it was concluded that some individuals would have to schedule their time better.

Regarding other activities which a member might feel inclined to attend on a Council night, Clark said that a choice would have to be made by individuals as to the importance of these organizations relative to that of the Council.

As ten voting members are required for a quorum, without which nothing can be accomplished, the session was adjourned, Clark first calling another meeting for Sunday at 5 pm.

Obviously, there had better be some Council organization before there can be any reorganization.

Ribaldry Mitigated . . .

THE CUSTOMARY groans, moans and obscenities of vodka-chugging Gate and Key initiates have been tempered by a new and encouraging sound, that of pennies clinking into the jar for a charitable cause.

Gate and Key could have staggered on forever in its traditional ways based on unadulterated hedonism and unmitigated ribaldry. But, someone in this "honorary" was not content with the status quo. Someone wanted to clean up the group's image. Gate and Key may never be wholly respectable, but the unfortunate youngsters at Junior Village are better off to the tune of $283, and no amount of offensive behavior will erase this humanitarian gesture.

On the other hand, no amount of community service will change the fact that the student members of the or-ganization biennially put on a brief but concentrated ex-hibition of head-over-heels drunkenness. However, Bacchanale is on the campus to stay, and it is refreshing to see that the University's foremost exponents of the Bacchanalian philosophy are making an attempt to live up to the label of "honorary" that has for so long been misapplied.

YR's Worked Too . . .

 To the Editors:
 MR. FRANK MILLER, Treasurer of the YD's, contends (HATCHET, 11/10) that their "great effort in the mock elec-"great effort in the mock elec-tion... has set a new school record." It is true that hard cam-paigning in a particular area, in many instances, does increase a voter turnout; but to state that if they (YD's) "passed it off as a joke like the YR's... the turn-out would have been about half of what was recorded" cannot be sustained for the following rea-sons:

sons:

(1) For the first time in many years, a ballot box was placed in the medical school. This increased the voting by 131. The initial request for such a placement, incidentally not mentioned by Mr. Miller, was made by the YR representative.

(2) The presence of a ballot.

YR representative.

(2) The presence of a ballot box at the New Women's Residence also provided an immediate opportunity for increased voting on the part of female students in the University.

(3) Senator Goldwater's candidacy was based upon a "choice, not an echo." And it must be admitted that for the first time in our lives, a choice has been of-our lives, a choice has been of-fered. When such an occasion arises, normal voter apathy is dispelled and increased turnout arises, normal voter apathy is dispelled and increased turnout at the polls is manifested.

Mr. Miller further feels that their "opposition was poorly organized and not very enthusiastic." Your opposition, Mr. Miller, was neither poorly organized nor unenthusiastic. During the course of the legal campaigning on campus—where the YD's were spending all their time and energy—the GWYR's were working in congressional campaigns in Virginia and Maryland which paid off with victories. And as a corollary to this, on election day while the YD's covered but two D.C. precincts, the YR's were participating in election proceedings in 12 D.C. precincts, two districts in Maryland (fifth and sixth) and the tenth in Virginia. In conclusion may I state that political parties try to achieve political victories, and the YR's served that function.

Why not donate it to a worthy group on campus, such as your friendly local chess club? We would be extremely pleased to have this token of affectionate regard from the faculty and student body, especially in lieu of some badly-needed new chess sets.

Inconvenience . . .

To the Editors

of the Editors:

I AM A GRADUATE student and my wife attends the Law School. We commute every morning from Silver Spring. On Friday, Nov. 13, we found that the normally inadequate parking facilities were partially closed to students, being filled with Hopes. students, being filled with Home coming floats.

Upon attempting to find a ace to park along the streets, we found temporary no-parking signs as the public streets were also being used to build floats and later to parade them. As we wanted to get to classes on time we were forced to park in a private lot.

We went over to the President's Office to protest. We were not allowed to see the president but the receptionist did tell us the policy was that as this occurs but once a year, it was not too much of an inconvenience.

Since these festivities are supported by the administration we feel recompense should be made to students by the school. We therefore, are presenting our bill to students by the school. We, therefore, are presenting our bill to the administration for reimbursement and hope that others will also do so.

We hope further that those students who could find no spaces at all and had to park on the street despite no-parking signs will ask the administration for reimbursement for fines and tow-ing charges.

This appears to be the only logical answer to the problem for this year. But a more practical and equitable solution should be worked out in the future which will allow the University to enjoy its Homecoming festivities without jeapordizing even one joy its Homecoming testing without jeapordizing even one day of education to those who

Too Much Noise . . .

 I REALIZE THAT this has been said and is by no means a new complaint. On the other hand the problem to which I direct myself in this letter has not been solved.

On Tuesday evening between 7-8 pm, I was attending a Spanish class when not too much to ish class when not too much to my surprise there arose a great clatter, not on the roof-fortu-nately—but on the street. This clatter was some sort of yelling contest, it seemed, between mem-bers of the G Street fraternities.

I know not whether this was inter- or intra-fraternity; I know not whether this activity was sponsored or spontaneous. I do know it made understanding my instruction—no mean task under the best of conditions—more difficult than it needs to be.

Midterms, Rehearsals Plague Musical's Cast and Crew

• NOW THAT HOMECOMING. 1964, is history, the cast and crew of Bells Are Ringing can finally become students again.

Since rehearsals began a month ago, more than 10,000 man-hours have been spent getting the musical ready. In the two-week period immediately preceding opening night, the production company worked about 80 hours interprise schemes! in intensive rehearsal.

Cast members had an average of 2.3 midterm exams in the twoweek period encompassing the actual production. The girls had more exams (2.47) than the boys more exams (2.47) than the boys (2.16).

Is it any wonder that these once-jubilant youths, previously overflowing with energy and enthusiasm, are now ready for a rest in the nearest sanitarium?

The stage crew had it just as bad, if not worse. Ask them if they enjoyed staying up until the early hours of the morning designing sets, or where the most comfortable place to sleep in Lisher Auditorium is?

Somehow, school work was squeezed between rehearsals and sleep, although many would dispute this fact.

Pity the history teacher who's been anxiously waiting for a seminar paper that was originated.

What about those who

What about those who are pinned and haven't been able to see their mate? Think of all the fun when they first see each other after those many torturous days of self-imposed solitude and exile—fun, that is, if they still remember each other.

And have you noticed the excessive number of students who have been sleeping in class these past few weeks? Odds are that they're members of the play, who must get their much-needed rest sometime, and have found that boring lecture to be just the right time.

Of course, let's not forget those who completely forgot to hand in assignments: that theme for English, that critique for history, and that book review for political science. Hopefully, they'll have an understanding and sympathetic professor.

The contrasting romance, involving Sue (DeVera Gilden) and Sandor (Jim McGregor) provided many moments of comic relief.

The singing, led by Chris Waters and Chuck Collett, who was occasionally awkward during presentation was generally good, though not always well projected. The musical numbers included such well-known favorites as "Long Before I Met You," "Just In Time," and "The Party's Over," which were sung with the richness of quality and emotion. The impression left by the general staging, including sets, lighting, makeup and costuming, was more effective and characterized by ingenuity. The planning involved in backstage area, especially, was easily recognizable by the smoothness of the chorus' many costume changes.

Grand Old Men Behind the Scenes

Ferero, Block Backbone Play Production

• THE MOST ACTIVE of the people working behind the scenes the Homecoming musical, Bells Are Ringing, would have to include Ed Ferero and Bob Block.

Ferero has been the managing director of University dramatics since its first production a year after his graduation from the University in 1953.

As adviser for the Interna-tional Night Show, Goat Show, Dance Concert, the Student Cul-tural Foundation and the one-act plays, Ferero is kept fairly busy around the campus. When plan-ning a show, his workday often reaches ten to twelve hours.

reaches ten to twelve hours.

Vitally concerned with University life, Ferero feels that, in spite of the many courses available in art, music and dancing, many students leave school without ever coming into contact with the cultural program, by either observation or active participation. He would like to help initiate a program well-rounded enough to appeal to each student.

Expressing pleasure with this

Expressing pleasure with this year's musical, Ferero feels that the cast is the most enthusiastic, eager, and hard-working group yet, and the play's success is a direct result of their efforts.

The production's costuming, scenery, lighting, sets, advertising, publicity and tickets were all under the charge of Ferero. He confesses that he often needs to use notes in keeping his busy schedule straight.

The managing director will immediately be starting preparations for the one-act plays and the drama to be presented next semester.

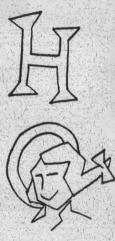

Bob Block, who works with Ferero, is a practicing lawyer with an active interest in the theater, particularly the University musicals. He graduated from GW in 1949 and received his JD in 1953. Concerning dramatic productions he says, "I enjoy watching cast members change and develop from year to year and adapt themselves to different roles."

Vlasova to Lecture on Moscow Art Theater for Russian Club

STANISLAVSKY and Vera Vlasova will have top billing at the Russian Club meeting, Nov. 20. A film will be shown on Stan-20. A film will be shown on Stanislavsky, the founder of the Moscow Art Theater, and a lecture will be given by Vera Vlasova, a former member of the Moscow Art Theater who has studied under Stanislavsky.

Miss Vlasova has recently been giving lessons in the Stanislavsky method to cast members of the Actor's Company. The method is the concept called the "inner world of a person."

Miss Vlasova said, "The two important principles of his method are to ease your body of tension and to be aware of your inner world." In her course she emphasizes art appreciation and creativity.

The public is invited to attend the film and the lecture, which will be given Friday, Nov. 20, in Room 319 of Corcoran Hall at 8:30 pm. There will be a small charge for non-members.

Future events of the Russian Club include a trip to New York City when the Moscow Art Theater is playing and a concert to be given in the spring by the Russian Choir.

LeBlanc, Students Discuss Conditions in South Today

DR HUGH L. LE BLANC and three southern students discussed Conditions in the South Today in a program last Saturday sponsored by the Civil Rights Division of the Liberal Education/Action Project.

Rev. Richard Yeo, staff advisor to LE/AP, introduced Dr. Le-Blanc, who analyzed the political situation in the New South.

Dr. LeBlanc said that a primary need is an effective two-party competition, which will develop when race is no longer an important factor.

The Goldwater victory will not have added to the two-party system because it weakens the Republican Party nationally. Dr. LeBlanc emphasized the historical position of the Republican Party as a promoter of civil rights.

In closing he said that even now a level of permissiveness towards the Negro voter has de-veloped in the South.

towards the Negro voter has developed in the South.

A. Y. Brown, a University student, discussed the economic condition of the South, Though sharing in the abundance of America, this area has experienced a sustained level of economic prosperity considerably below that of the rest of the country, thus creating a people of poverty in a land of plenty, he maintained.

This retardation of economic growth has been caused by the southern system of segregation. Rix Threadgill and Mike Carley then told of the injustices which they experienced in defense of civil rights.

At a small college Threadgill attended for two years, he wrote a newspaper column about racial relations. For this he was the object of many malicious acts.

Whites, like the Negroes, are trying to find their place in the New South. Threadgill said the most agonizing experience for the white liberal is trying to communicate with traditional elders, while the biggest threat to the White Supremist is the growing number of liberal White southerners.

LE/AP Digs Ditch To Aid Virginia's Negro Community

• A DITCH 15 feet long and three feet deep is the most concrete result to date of the Liberal Education/Action Project's Gum Springs project.

Object of the amateur digging is to stimulate Fairfax County, Va., to faster action on building the drainage system which has been promised to the depressed, predominantly Negro community for over 20 wars according to over 20 years, according to

LE/AP.

The ditch was begun last Saturday by the GW students and Gum Springs youngsters in the Freedom Class, a twice-a-week tutoring and political education class run by LE/AP for Gum Springs pupils between 10 and 20 years old.

The ditch has already attracted support and participation from Gum Springs residents, Hobbs said. "Several men came along while we were digging, found out what was going on, and took up picks themselves. The men and the bigger students would break up the ground with picks, and the Freedom Class pupils would shovel away the loose dirt," he said.

shovel away the loose dirt," he said.

The digging went on all Saturday afternoon, with eight GW students and about 30 Gum Springs residents hefting dirt and singing songs. The group put up a sign saying, "SLOW, Ditch Being Dug" on the road to call attention to the project.

The idea was conceived before LE/AP learned that the County—last week—obtained the final easement necessary to begin letting bids on the drainage system. County officials hope to open the project for bids this week, and say they are aiming at June, 1965, as a completion date for the project.

"This means the County is doing something besides talking," McKegg said, "but there is still no sewer. We put it to a vote, and the Freedom Class students wanted to go ahead, so we did. The sign put up next to the ditch will recognize that the County is moving, he said.

Delts Emerge as Champions

by Marc Isenberg and Dale DeWald

• UNDEFEATED DELTA TAU Delta copped the "A" league intramural championship this weekend, as Sigma Chi's defense held undefeated Delta Theta Phi to a scoreless tie.

The primary factor for the lack of scoring in the season's last "A" league game was that each defensive unit picked off three interceptions.

The only real scoring threat came midway in the second half, when DTPhi drove down to the SX five-yard line. However, Tony Romasco of SX intercepted a pass on the next play to terminate the drive. With this exception, the whole game was played at midfield.

In Sunday "B" league, TEP and DTD fought to a 6-6 tie, ROTC nipped past SN 3-0, and PSD and TKE remained scoreless in their game

The game between once-beaten Sigma Nu and previously-winless ROTC featured much good defensive action. The limited score was a field goal, credited to ROTC in its first win of the

The game progressed with little ball movement until the second half, when ROTC broke through. Jerry Stalmaker inter-cepted a SN pass on the SN 15vard line.

ROTC was unable to move the ball, so field-goal-specialist Hugh Kaufman came in and racked up the game's only score.

Phi Sigma Delta and Tau Kap-a Epsilon quarterbacks were constantly being thrown for loss-es as both defensive units put on a hard rush. Consequently, neither team was able to put together a sustained drive.

With Sigma Nu's loss,

With Sigma Nu's loss, and DTD and SPD drawing their games, AEPi recaptured first place with only one week of play remaining.

Puck Men Trounce Mercuries

• THE COLONIALS' HOCKEY TEAM took to the ice last Sunday morning for its first game of the 1964-65 season and trounced the Baltimore Mercuries, 20-2.

Toni Pell, University law student, led the scoring with six goals and an assist. Doug Croft, the goalie, played a brilliant game, making some sensational saves.

This is the first year of competition for the ice hockey team, and it looks as if it will be a good one. Player-Coach Jon Edelstein commented at the end of Sunday's game that he was very pleased with the team's playing and believes that it has a very good chance of taking the Metropolitan League Championship.

Most of the players have had quite a bit of experience. Pell, the leading scorer, played hockey four years at Princeton. Peter Regan played in the intramural league at Cornell. Don Schmidt, a Canadian, played for St. Mi-chaels in Toronto, Canada— a very well known and respected junior team. ### TAKE A LOOK AT TOMORROW!

FORD MOTOR COMPANY'S EXPERIMENTAL GAS TURBINE SUPERHIGHWAY TRUCK ANTICIPATES THE NATIONAL HIGHWAY NETWORK OF THE 1970's.

A new era in trucking is almost here. When the 41,000-mile national highway network is completed it will be possible for the first time to schedule coast to coast, big payload hauling. Ford Motor Company's answer to the challenge is this experimental tractor-trailer combination. A tandem axle drive tractor, powered by a 600 hp gas turbine engine permits a cruising speed of 70 miles per hour, a non-stop range of 600 miles. Designed for long-distance, non-stop operation, the two-man cab includes sleeping facilities, fold-away table, lavatory, toilet, oven, refrigerator and TV for the co-driver—with over 6'3" of headroom. Because of its cruising speed, the truck will be compatible with the normal passenger car flowrate of traffic. Other unique features are its odorless exhaust and extremely quiet operation.

Anticipating the opportunities and needs of the future is standard practice at Ford Motor Company.

That's why it's such an exciting place to work. Look to Ford Motor Company for a career with growth potential and satisfaction—from pure science to manufacturing . . . marketing to labor relations.

• FIRST AND TEN — Mike Holloran is about to be dropped by three frustrated Villanova tacklers following his jaunt for a first down. The run kept the drive moving in the second quarter which resulted in the Colonkais touchdown in the 13-6 Homecoming victory over the Wildcats.

Colonials to Meet Bulldogs Sat.

. THE FINAL GAME of the 1964 football season will played next Saturday when the Colonials travel to Charleston, S.C., to meet the Citadel Bull-

The Bulldogs will bring a 4-5 record into the final game while the Colonials, 4-4, will attempt to complete their first winning season since 1960. The Bulldogs' record is deceiving, however, since they have registered four shutouts in the 1964 campaign.

The captain of Coach Ed Teague's squad is senior center Frank Murphy (6-0, 225). As a sophomore Murphy was a reserve who had no game experience un-til he was sent in to replace an injured center. Murphy has been in the starting lineup ever since. He tackles hard and calls the sig-nals on defense.

Filling the guard posts are senior Joe Missar (5-11, 202) and junior Mel Philips (5-10, 199).

Missar is a fine pass blocker while Philips is an excellent man-on-man blocker. On end

Buff Upsets 'Cats With Great Defense

• IT HAS BEEN A rough year for the cats. First, the mighty Cincinnati Bearcats fell before the Colonials, 17-15. Last Satur-day the Villanova Wildcats were swept out in the Homecoming tide, 13-6.

It was a fantastic defensive effort which powered the Buff to victory. The defensive line, led by Paul Flowers and Doug McNeil, almost completely bottled up the Wildcats' running game, limiting the Cats to a net of 50 yards rushing.

In passing, Villanova had an easier time, netting 203 yards, but the GW secondary came up with the tough plays in the clutch.

A scoreless first period saw the Wildcats show bursts of power in spots, but the Colonial defensive unit, rising to the occasion, stopped each drive.

In the opening moments of the second quarter, George Ferguson punted to the Wildcat 22. Sophomore Quarterback Bill Andreiko took over for Villanova and immediately got his charges moving. Fullback Tom Brown carried to the 36 in two successive plays.

carried to the cessive plays.

Andrejko then hit his right end John McDonnell at the Buff 44. Two plays later McDonnell was again a receiver of an Andrejko pass at the 32. Changing Andrejko hit Dick Sern-targets, Andrejko hit Dick Sernyak all alone in the corner of the end zone for the score.

The attempted point after touchdown by Jim Case was blocked by Cliff Reid. The score was 6-0 with 7.30 left to go in was 6-0 with 7:30 left to go in the half the half.

GW finally picked up it first first down with 6:25 left in the half, but once again the Wildcat defense snuffed out the drive. The Buff finally got going after Mike Holloran returned a Villanova punt 20 yards to the Cat 35. From the shotgun, quarterback Garry Lyle swept right end to the 20. He then faked going right and swept left end to the five.

Three plays later, Lyle swept right end for a one-yard touch-down. Mark Gross added the point and the Buff took a 7-6 halftime lead after scoring with 0:46 left in the second period.

0:46 left in the second period.

In the third period, Lyle returned a punt to the Buff 46.

Once again the Colonials went into the shotgun. Fullback Jon Raemore carried to the Cat 47 and Lyle ran to the 31. A Lyle-Holloran pass put the ball on the 21, and the same two combined to move the ball to the After Lyle was spilled for a loss back to the 10, Mark Gross came in and kicked a 27-yard field goal with 4:53 left in the third quarter to put GW in front, 10-6.

Once again the Villanova of-fense could not move and Dave Connell was forced to punt, Lyle returned to the Buff 45.

Lyle faked a jump pass but threw instead to Norm Neverson at the Cat 35. Lyle, Harry Haught and Raemore carried to the 12 before Lyle was thrown #### Chess Team . . .

• THE COLONIAL CHESS team dropped its second decision of the season to Burtons-ville, Md., Chess Club, 6½-1½, Friday night at the Washing-ton Chess Diyan.

Barry Sperling won his sec-ond game in a row, this time at first board, and Don Hodges made his first score of the year with a draw at third board. ### Rankin's Rabble

Lyle, Flowers Star for Buff

by Jim Rankin

PAUL FLOWERS has been named the lineman of the week for the second straight time. His blocking helped set up the Colonials' only touchdown against Villanova, and his fourth quarter pass rush saved the victory for the Buff.

Coach Jim Camp has beautifully streamlined the Colonial offense. Operating in the shotgun Mike Holloran has become a threat on the wingback reverse, while Lyle's passing has made opponents forget about trying to blitz.

The "tackle" pass, in which Lyle threw to McNeil and the fake "jump pass" in which Lyle faked a pass at the line of scrimmage, retreated, and threw to end Norman Neverson are examples of exciting and effective plays which have rejuvenated Colonial efforts.

Colonial efforts.

In holding the Cats to 175 yards less than their usual rushing output, the Buff's pass defense was porous beyond description. This may be partly explained away by saying that Villianova, which seldom threw in its first seven games, surprised the Buff's once-heralded defensive secondary.

Ferguson Punts Way to Stardom As Buff Gridder

GEORGE FERGUSON is one • GEORGE FERGUSON is one of the Colonials' better football players, but he has been largely unheralded until this year, after playing his freshman year, he suffered a shoulder injury that kept him out of action until this year. Now he plays at splitend and does the punting.

This year Ferguson has punted for the Colonials since the Furman game, when last year's Camp selected George for the assignment.

Ferguson started punting at Rye High School in Rye, New York. Punters were needed for the high school football team, and because he was interested in booting, he tried for the position, and made it. During his three years of high school football, George averaged better than 35 yards per punt.

George also quarterbacked his sophomore and junior years, and took the additional assignment of halfback during his senior year. During the three years Ferguson played quarterback, he set passing records for the most completions and total yardage.

He also averaged 18 points per game as a basketball forward, and had an overall record of 21-6 as a baseball pitcher.

When "Fergie" came to the University, he was assigned to do the punting by his freshman coach. That year was highlighted by his 70-yard quick-kick against the Navy Plebes. When Fullback Bob Stiffler was injured at midseason, he was replaced by Ferguson.

This year some of the athletes were assigned to live in non-athlete dorms, and "Fergie" as one of those selected. He likes the idea of splitting the athletes, because he gets to meet more people. He has had no trouble adjusting to the different dorm—in fact, he said the new facilities were much quieter than Welling Hall.
